

Ability Weavers is a purpose-filled work environment including adults with autism and other disabilities. We provide an integrated work setting in which those with and without disability work side by side and are offered the same wages. Together we create beautiful and functional home decor and gift items. Our products are made on site in our open weaving studio.

About us

Ability Weavers is the dream of a family touched by autism. As the parents of a young woman with autism, Eric and Beryl Bartkus knew there was something missing for individuals and families affected by autism and developmental disability. The big question is always, "What will my child do when he/she ages out of school?" For those with special needs in Michigan this happens when they reach the age of 26. Eric and Beryl believe that one answer to that question is the opportunity to enjoy meaningful work in the "real world".

Ability Weavers has established its weaving studio in the small town of Lowell Michigan. It is here that we believe our employees will develop a sense of purpose.

Ability Weavers LLC is an equal opportunity employer.

All profits are reinvested into the employees of Ability Weavers.
